Rezwan Razack, one of the world's largest collectors of Indian paper money, will display his entire collection of one-rupee notes. The exhibition follows the release of his latest book 'One Rupee, One Hundred Years' that talks about the journey of the one-rupee note from 1917 to 2017, while examining the earliest techniques of manufacturing and the agencies inside and outside India where issuing this note was possible. The exhibition is on at Sublime Galleria, UB City, from today to Dec 7. Open for all.
