

In perfect harmony

A celebration of music and art through the prized creations of Thota Tharrani makes its way to the Garden City

When art and music find expression on a painter's canvas, the result can only be superlative. Sublime Galleria, Bangalore's leading art gallery that has carved a niche for itself in recognizing fresh talent, will unveil Symphony by Padmashri-winner Thota Tharrani on December 13 at UB City. The exhibition will run from December 14 to January 12, 2014.

A prolific painter, Thota Tharrani also loves music. With Symphony, he expresses the joy of listening to his favourite melodies through vivid artwork that is as appealing to the eye as music is to the ears. The confluence has been beautifully portrayed. For creative minds who are looking for that stroke of inspiration, Thota Tharrani's canvases can be just the muse.

Renowned for his diverse creations ranging from paintings, murals, paper collages, wooden montages and installations across various themes, Thota Tharrani is truly the master of versatility. The artist's collaboration with Symphony is the perfect way to celebrate his boundless creativity and imagination.

Founded by Uzma Irfan in 2009 and known as India's first sky gallery, the Sublime Galleria at UB City has been the launch pad for many an aspiring artist. A brand to reckon with, the gallery continues to bring eminent artists and painters to mingle with the art circuit as well as next-gen artistic talents across the country.

“Sri Tharrani needs no introduction. His work is legendary and much sought-after, both in India and overseas. It is our privilege to present his latest collection in Bangalore. I invite each and every one of you to use this opportunity to view his unique work”
